

Louisiana's Black Bears

Black bears are WILD animals, just like squirrels, rabbits, BIRDS, turtles and ALLIGATORS. Wild animals need food, water, space and shelter to live and are naturally afraid of people. Bears are big wild animals, but they are SHY and hide from people most of the time. Because they are big animals they need lots of HABITAT (food, water, space and shelter) to live.

Bears live in the woods and find foods like BERRIES, NUTS and small animals to eat. They are excellent climbers and climb TREES to reach nuts and fruits. They also use trees for safety and bears often climb high in a tree when they want to hide.

Bears sleep in a DEN in the winter. In Louisiana, male (boy) bears rest in temporary dens, but may get up to move and eat. Female (girl) bears stay in their dens from December to May. Every other year they give birth to two tiny CUBS (baby bears) and stay with them in the den until the cubs grow big enough to travel through the woods with their mother.

Bears in LOUISIANA are a different type (subspecies) from the BLACK BEARS in other states. There are not very many of these special bears left, and they are found only in a few areas. They are called a 'THREATENED' species. This label reminds people that we need to help conserve bears and their habitat, so they can continue to exist in Louisiana.

How you can help bears

NEVER FEED a bear.

This teaches them not to be afraid of people. When wild animals learn to get food from people they can be a nuisance or danger to people, and they are in more danger from people too. Bears that find garbage or are given food by people may learn to visit houses and yards. Do not go near a bear outside of its natural habitat.

DON'T RUIN HABITAT.

Wild animals of all sizes need habitat to live. Forests are home for many animals, including bears. Cutting trees, leaving trash or dumping in water ruins habitat – the home of large and small animals.

DRIVE SAFELY.

Bears need a lot of habitat to live. They have to cross roads and canals to find enough food to survive. Pay attention while driving and try to help animals cross safely.

LEARN.

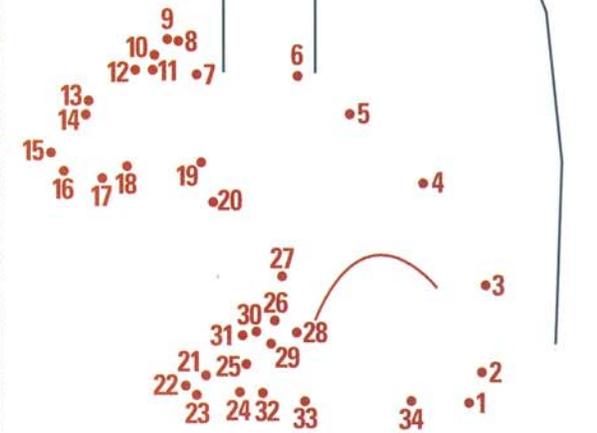

Learn about wildlife and enjoy sharing the world with wild animals and healthy habitat.

REPORT DEAD BEARS.

Wildlife managers keep track of bears in Louisiana. It is important that they know when a bear is found dead. If you find a bear that has died report it to a wildlife professional, and do not touch it.
